Counseling/Consultation Process

People come to counseling because they want something to be different in their lives. They may want to change their personal or family situation, solve a particular problem, resolve old hurts, or simply bring a healthier balance to their lives. In the case of career counseling, they may have such concerns as educational planning, job dissatisfaction or “burnout”, career changing, conflicts with co-workers or supervisors, job loss, or the need to establish new priorities and achieve better balance.

At our initial meeting, we will assess your current needs and concerns, and decide if we can work together to address them. If we agree to continue, the usual procedure is to verbally contract for an initial number of sessions. When they are completed, we will evaluate the results of our work together, and determine the need for additional sessions, termination, or outside referral for further assistance.

Throughout our work together, I will make every reasonable effort to professionally facilitate the resolution of your needs and concerns. Ultimately, you must decide to use what you gain from the counseling process.

Your Rights and Responsibilities

You have the right to ask me to explain my reasons for making certain recommendations or for using certain procedures. You also have the right to refuse to follow these recommendations, and/or to terminate the counseling process at any time and for any reason. I have the right and ethical responsibility to terminate counseling and offer a referral to another counselor if you choose not to follow my recommendations. Either of us may request a final session to discuss the reasons for termination, and to decide on an appropriate referral if desired. Please inform me of your intentions to see another counselor or mental health professional during the course of our work together, so that we may provide consistent treatment for you.

You have the right to confidentiality in the counseling relationship as described in the next section.

Our work can only be effective with commitment and continuity. If you must cancel a scheduled appointment, please inform me no sooner than 24 hours before the appointment. You will be responsible for payment for any missed or uncancelled appointments, except in the case of personal emergency. Please be on time for your scheduled sessions, as other clients may have appointments with me immediately following yours. Note that if you are late, the session will still end on time, and you will still be responsible for full payment.

My Responsibilities as Your Counselor

I adhere to the Code of Ethics and Standards of Practice approved by the American Counseling Association (2005) and the counseling licensure boards in Virginia, North Carolina, and Alabama. These ethics and standards are intended to protect the welfare of both my clients and the community I serve. A primary provision of these is my responsibility to protect your right to privacy:

I must keep all details of our counseling relationship, including anything you tell me, in strict confidence, unless I have your expressed permission to inform or consult with someone else. I may consult with colleagues for supervision with the understanding that I will not disclose your name or other identifiable personal information. This code of confidentiality has only a few exceptions:
1. I must disclose information to a third party if I learn of any potential abuse or neglect of a child or elderly person, or if I learn that you pose a threat of danger to yourself or any other person.

2. If I receive information confirming you have a disease known to be communicable and fatal, I must disclose this to a third party who by her/his relationship with you is at high risk of contracting the disease. Before making the disclosure, I must first determine that you have not already informed the third party, and that you have no intention to do so.

3. In short, I have a “duty to protect” you and others from harm.

4. I will not disclose any information without first consulting my colleagues or other professionals regarding the validity of these exceptions. Should you request that I reveal information about our counseling relationship to others, I will ask you to first sign a release of information form specifying exactly what you wish revealed and to whom.

Fees for Service

I am a provider for American Behavioral, ACI, Horizon Health, FEI, and Behavioral Health Systems. All other clients will be “direct pay”. Sliding scale rates are available.
